THE SHEEP MARKET. Receipts this week, 13.250.

There has been a very decided improvement in the market this week, for both sheep and lambs, equal, the buyers say, to a cent a pound for the meat. The sellers say not more than half a cent, but acknowledge an advance of $5.250 a head. The proportion of lambs is very large, and when the quality is good, they sell quiet at prices equivalent to 3c per pound net. Coarse-wool lamb peits are in great demand, and the price has materially advanced. Mixed lots of sheep and lamb peits will average 52c this month. This is one cause of the advance on sheep. Sheep are generally estimated at one-half the live weight for the weight of meat, but they won't do that on the home weight. A lot of Ohio sheep, which weighed 97 h, average at Buffalo, sold at $3.37\sqrt{c}_i call them $85$, net, each, when sold here, and the price of the meat would be just 70 h satisfing effat.

A lot of Ohio sheep, fed in New Jersey till in good, fair condition and estimated by the seller at 115 h average.

A lot of Ohio sheep, fed in New Jersey till in good, sair condition and estimated by the seller at 115 B average, live weight, sold at $4 each. At 70 per pound on half the estimated net weight, the price would be $3 99.

The trade has been useven. Thursday which is counted a good market day, sheep were in very short supply in Six h street, and sold atalmost acy price the brokers asked. The lambs happened that day to be all, or nearly so, in the hands of McGraw, and he held them high, and got what he saked.

On Monday, most of the stock in the street happened to be in the hands of Hume and Hart & West, and they controlled the market.

To-day there were more sheep and lambs, and in more hands; but the buyers said the brokers were all sancy.—They certainly did appear to act as though they knew they could sell all the stock at their own prices. The weather was cool, and the reports from Washington Market favorable. The decline upon beef it was feared would affect mutton, but up to the close of this report (Wdnesday afternoon) it had not had any material effect. The stock at Forty-fourth street, though on Wednesday did not appear to be selling as well as in Sixth street on Tuesday, but it might be owing partly to the storm and partly to the quality; the lambs in particular were quits ordinary. Choice lambs are in demand.

At present prices, if packers could be assured of stock there would be a great dearf of pork put up. Drovers are all condent that the present rates will not continue.

The majority of the hoge arriving are light, while the best demand is for large fat hogs that will give a great great age of lard.
